

Because Its There!

GLSS members are often asked what compels them to undertake a seemingly dangerous and arduous passage...alone. The answer lies at the heart of one's existence—to push his or her personal limits. This is particularly true in today's world that eschews risk and, by extension, reward.

Solo sailors tend to be adventurers, undeterred by conformity and comfort. They generally do not lead plain vanilla lives. They love the challenge of life.

And in this modern world where instant gratification is reflected in the trappings of success, solo sailors seek an inner satisfaction that endures long after the event.

"Having shared the common experience of reaching Mackinac alone, there is a sense of personal accomplishment and a strong bond of respect among fellow members"

Our Purpose

The Great Lakes Singlehanded Society is an organization established for the perpetuation of the sport of solo sailing. Its purpose is twofold - the first being to develop and educate sailors on suitable techniques, equipment, and gear for shorthanded passage under sail; the second being the recognition of accomplishments of singlehanded sailors in the Great Lakes region.

Membership in the Society is conveyed only to those individuals who successfully complete any of the following Solo Challenges: Port Huron or Chicago to Mackinac Island, the Sault Ste. Marie to Duluth, the Lake Erie Solo, or the Lake Ontario 300. The satisfactory completion of any one of these challenges is viewed as a singularly significant individual accomplishment. The Society views all who do so as winners of these events, and they are accorded lifetime membership in the Society.

These bronze medallions are only awarded to those sailors who successfully complete one of the Solo Challenges

The GLSS has a rich history—become a part of it!

From its humble beginnings in 1978, the Great Lakes Singlehanded Society has grown to become the premier association of solo sailors in the United States. Less than 280 individuals have become life members by completing a Solo Mackinac Challenge from either Port Huron, Michigan or Chicago, Illinois, the Trans Superior Solo, the Lake Erie Solo, or the Lake Ontario 300 Solo Challenge. In the future, it is expected that a Challenge from Lake Ontario will be recognized as an equally significant accomplishment, and membership bestowed upon those skippers who successfully complete it. Skippers who began their solo sailing careers with the GLSS have gone on to compete in grander challenges including:

- ♦ The BOC Challenge
- ♦ Around Alone
- ♦ OSTAR
- ♦ Solo Trans—Pac

You've thought about it

Solo sailors are unique. They are universally independent and, at the same time, incredibly social. Competitive, yet helpful. Irreverent and respectful. They continuously seek personal challenges and admire the same trait in others. Above all, they appreciate the relationship between a skipper and his well-sailed vessel.

If this echoes within your spirit, then perhaps you have found a new course on your sailing horizon...

The GLSS, through its sponsorship of singlehanded challenges, encourages the development of short-handed sailing skills. GLSS members are eager to share their experiences in overcoming weather, gear failures and the personal obstacles that stand between a sailor and his personal achievements.

And though membership in the Great Lakes Singlehanded Society is limited to those who have completed sanctioned challenges, there are many ways to join in the fun prior to, or after a successful challenge. ■ Our Fall Race slate consists of four races, three of which are single day events. The Lake Michigan Scramble is an overnight affair, which serves as a great warm up to a major GLSS challenge!
